

Our Environmental Policy

OfficeMax New Zealand Limited is committed to the conservation, protection and enhancement of the environment. In meeting this commitment, OfficeMax will conduct all activities with a high standard of environmental care and be committed to the reduction and prevention of pollution.

We are committed to protecting our environment by:

- Meeting or exceeding compliance requirements with all applicable environmental legislation and regulations, and those agreements to which OfficeMax is a signatory
- In conjunction with local, national and other agencies, promote and raise awareness of good environmental management policies and practices among staff and other stakeholders
- Setting, monitoring and reviewing objectives and targets to continually improve and review our environmental performance
- Reducing consumption of energy and minimising waste through internal fuel, power and waste to landfill environmental impact reduction programmes
- Ensuring our procurement activities take into account environmental impacts for supplies and services sourced from New Zealand and overseas
- Offering a wide range of environmentally certified products
- Reducing and where possible preventing pollution from operations
- Ensuring this Environmental Policy is communicated as appropriate to all our stakeholders, and all visitors and people working on our premises
- Encouraging all employees to participate in efforts to protect and improve the environment
- Providing training to all employees to ensure they have appropriate knowledge on how to reduce our impact on the environment.
